

This Is What Things Can Teach Us...

I've been reading through Rilke's Book of Hours and came across the following, which moved me deeply. In a course I'm teaching on the Powers of the Universe and the Path of the Christ, we are contemplating the power of allurements. Its cosmological expression is gravity. In the human realm it is the gravity that love exerts on our hearts. The line "to patiently trust our heaviness" slayed me.

The Book of Pilgrimage, Book 2, Section 11-16, (From Rilke's Book of Hours)

No one lives his life.

Disguised since childhood, haphazardly assembled
from voices and fears and little pleasures, we come of age as masks.

Our true face never speaks.

Somewhere, there must be storehouses where all these lives are laid away like suits of armor or old carriages or clothes hanging limply on the walls.

Maybe all paths lead there,
to the repository of unlived things.

And yet, though we strain against the deadening grip
of daily necessity,
I sense there is this mystery:

All life is being lived.
Who is living it, then?
Is it the things themselves,
or something waiting inside them,
like an unplayed melody in a flute?

Is it the winds blowing over the wa

Is it the branches that signal to each other?

Is it flowers

interweaving their fragrances, or streets, as the wind through time?

Is it animals, warmly moving,

or birds, that suddenly rise up?

Who lives it then? God, are you the one who is living life?

All who seek you

test you.

And those who find you

bind you to image and gesture.

I would rather sense you

as Earth senses you.

In my ripening

ripens

what you are.

I need from you no tricks

to prove you exist.

Time, I know,

is other than you.

No miracles, please.

Just let your laws

become clearer

from generation to generation.

How surely gravity's law,
strong as an ocean current,
takes hold of even the smallest thing
and pulls it toward the heart of the world.

Each thing—
each stone, blossom, child—is held in place.

Only we, in our arrogance push out beyond what we each belong to for some empty freedom.

If we surrendered

to Earth's intelligence
we could rise up rooted, like trees.

Instead we entangle ourselves in knots of our own making and struggle, lonely and confused.

So like children, we begin again
to learn from the things, because they are in God's heart;
they have never left him.

This is what things can teach us:

to fall,
patiently to trust our heaviness.
For even a bird has to do that before he can fly.

Seeing as there are so various families buying online and likewise exploring the internet market place, it has become increasingly famous to purchase medications online. So the next question is where can you get data that is reliable. You can find useful info fleetly and conveniently by going online. The most common sexual problems in men are erectile dysfunction and ejaculation disorders. A lot of doctors think about "levitra cost". Did learned some about "buy levitra online usa"? Other matter we are going to is "buy generic levitra online". In effect, a medical reviews found that up to three quarters of humanity on such preparation practice side effects. Luckily, most cases of sexual malfunction are treatable, so it is momentous to share your concerns with your partner and physician. Today, there are many options for men who suffer from erectile dysfunction. Get emergency help if you have any of these signs of a side effect to this medication. Talk to your health care provider to see if it's sure to make the switch.